THE REVOLT.

Native Uprising in South Africa a Serious Matter.

The Disturbance is Widespread and Becoming Hourly More Alarming.

British Officers Taking Prompt Action to Suppress the Rebellion—Supplies of Ammunition for Maxim Guns Hurried Forward—Volunteers Enrolled.

CAPETOWN, March 27.—Dispatches received from Bulawayo, Matabeleland, Friday morning, indicate that the uprising in that part of the colony is very serious. The telegrams from the front Thursday merely outline a revolt of a few natives in the Inseza and Filabusi districts, the massacre of some white settlers, including Commissary Bentley, and the dispatch of a small force of volunteers to the scene of the disturbance.

The dispatches of Friday show that the disturbance is widespread and becoming hourly more alarming. An extensive uprising of the natives, it is understood, has taken place, and the revolt may spread to other parts of South Africa. The settlers in Matabeleland are flocking into the towns, which are being placed in a condition for defense. Volunteers are being enrolled everywhere, provisions are being collected and in short all the steps necessary are being taken to meet most serious developments.

Reinforcements of mounted police have already been sent to the Bulawayo and Gumbo, and the Cape rifles have received orders to prepare for active service. Supplies of ammunition for the Maxim guns are being hurried to Bulawayo by Col. Napier, who is in charge of the government forces. The natives are raiding farms and killing white settlers in the Matopo Hills district, and rumor has it that over 50 people have been slain.

Clermont County Farmer Assizes. BATAVIA, O., March 27.—Sylvester McClanahan, a prominent farmer of Franklin township, Clermont county, assigned Friday to Attorney E. Q. Crane, Assets, $3,000; liabilities about the same.

AN ELECTRICAL SIGNAL.

For Use at Sea or on Land Given a Test by Naval Officers.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Secretary Herbert and members of the senate and house committees on naval affairs, Gen. Greeley, Gen. Flagler, R. Adm. Ramsay, Commodore Highborn and a number of other officials witnessed an exhibition of a new electrical signal for use at sea and on land, the invention of L. E. Crandall. The exhibition took place in the sub-basement of the navy department building and was conducted by the inventor. A display frame containing incandescent electric light lamps, so arranged diametrically and diagonally as to contain all the elements of every letter in the alphabet, composed the signalling apparatus proper. To this is attached a keyboard similar to that of a typewriter, and pressure upon each lettered key so switches the current that the letter indicated is formed in brilliant curves and hues. It is claimed that the device will show plainly at the distance of five miles.

A PLAN.

For the Establishment of International Court of Arbitration

To Settle Disputes Between Civilized Nations Being Put on Foot.

This is the Outcome of a Conference by a Committee Appointed by the New York State Bar Association—The General Features of the Plan.

NEW YORK, March 27.—A plan providing for a permanent international court of arbitration for the settlement of disputes between civilized nations in general and between the United States and Great Britain in particular was considered Thursday by the committee on international arbitration of the New York state bar association.

The plan was not given out for publication because it is not yet considered mature in all its details. It is the object of the committee to obtain the concurrence and co-operation in the final formation of this plan of all the bar associations in this country as well as Great Britain, Canada and Australia.

The meeting was held at the office of Edward G. Whittaker, No. 29 Broadway, president of the association. Correspondence had already been opened with the various bar associations of the country and favorable replies were read Thursday from those of Maine, West Virginia, Wisconsin, New Mexico, Georgia, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Missouri, District of Columbia, Iowa, Virginia and Michigan. The meeting went into executive session and the plan, so far as it has at present progressed, was presented to the committee by the sub-committee appointed some time ago to consider the matter.

Before the final adoption of the plan it will be submitted to President Cleveland, in a memorial from the association, but this will not be until the arbitration committees of all the state bar associations of the country have passed upon it.

President Whittaker, when asked what were the general features of the plan proposed, said:

"It provides for the naming by the United States government and Great Britain of some of the highest judicial officers, who shall constitute a court for the adjudication of all diplomatic differences that shall arise between the two nations. This court is to be always in session in a legal sense; that is, it will always be ready to meet whenever called upon by the joint action of the two governments.

"The American members of the court are to be taken from the federal judiciary. The English will, of course, make their chancellor a member. It is possible that we may recommend that Germany and France shall be represented. That will depend to some extent on the attitude of these countries and also of Great Britain. The object will be primarily to settle the dispute between the two countries, but we anticipate that the advantages of the court will become so obvious to other nations that they will also seek its benefits and submit their disputes to its decision rather than resort to war."

NARROW ESCAPE.

Vest Buckle Saves a Man's Life From a Would-be Assassin's Bullet.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 27.—Louis Black, of the clothing manufacturing firm of Black & Meyer, on North St. Paul street, was the victim of an attempted assassination Thursday noon, as he was on his way to lunch. The would-be assassin is Leon Rosenbaum, 21 years of age, a son of Mr. Rosenbaum, of the firm of Seel, Rosenbaum & Steffel, clothing manufacturers, whose factory is near that of Black & Meyer.

When Mr. Black crossed Andrews street he passed Mr. Rosenbaum and greeted the boy "Good morning." He had taken but a few steps when a pistol shot rang out and he felt something strike him in the back. Turning he exclaimed, "My God, what are you shooting me for?"

Rosenbaum continued to fire and Mr. Black held his umbrella in front of him in an effort to protect himself from the flying bullets. Three shots were fired, the young man being within ten feet of his victim. A large number of people gathered and Rosenbaum escaped up an alleyway. Mr. Black walked to his house nearby, and an examination of his back showed a bullet hole through his coat and vest and the vest buckle had been shattered. This evidently saved his life. The boy is thought to be insane, as the families of Black and Rosenbaum are on intimate terms.

AT REST.

The Remains of Unfortunate Pearl Bryan Removed From the Vault to the Grave.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., March 27.—The remains of Pearl Bryan were removed from the vault to the grave in Forest Hill cemetery Friday afternoon. Brief funeral services were conducted by Dr. H. A. Gobin and Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth at the grave. It was intended that the funeral should be a quiet affair, yet a great many sympathizing friends were present to pay their tribute of love and respect to the murdered girl. It was only after long pleading that the aged and broken-hearted father agreed to permit his daughter's body to be buried without the head. "It must be found," was his only reply whenever the subject of burial was mentioned.

The body has been lying the vault several weeks and hundreds of people have gone to the cemetery out of curiosity to look upon the stone receptacle which contains it. The remains were not exposed at the funeral services. They were dressed in the beautiful white dress which Pearl wore when she graduated from the high school.

The burial of the body recalls more vividly than ever the horrible tragedy, and all of Putnam county is again agog over it. Excitement is still almost as high as it was the date the murder was revealed.

STILL A MYSTERY.

Cause of Annie McGrath's Death Unsolved—Burial of the Victim.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—The cause of the death of Annie McGrath is as much of a mystery as ever and until Dr. Leffman shall complete his analysis of the dead girl's viscera, this very important phase of the case will remain unsolved.

Developments Friday were lacking. If the authorities have any new theories as to the guilt or innocence of Samuel P. Langdon, who is held in connection with the girl's death, it was not divulged. The reticence that has been so manifest on the part of the police and coroner since the finding of Miss McGrath's body in the dwelling at 2926 Girard avenue, where she and Langdon lived as man and wife, still continues. The report of Dr. Leffman will probably not be presented to Coroner Ashbridge before Monday. The funeral of Miss McGrath took place Friday afternoon from the residence of her parents, 2018 Gratz street.

Although every effort had been made to keep the date of interment a secret so as to avoid the presence of curious crowds, the fact became known to many persons, and a large gathering surrounded the house while the services were being held. The interment was made in Mount Moriah cemetery.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Work on the Building Being Rapidly Pushed Forward.

ST. LOUIS, March 27.—Work on the republican national convention building is being rapidly pushed forward and the iron girders and truss supports for the roof are completed. It is expected that the building will be finished by June 1. The seating capacity will be so arranged that over 8,000 spectators and all the delegates will have an unobstructed view of the chairman's desk. Postmaster Carlisle has arranged for a sub-postal station with carriers, and parties attending the convention can have mail addressed to the convention hall with assurances of prompt delivery. The plans provide seats and tables for 408 newspaper reporters. D. M. Houser, of the Globe-Democrat, is chairman of the press committee. In a few days a secretary will be chosen by the press committee, and his name and address will be published through the press associations.
